

Sport BC Harry Jerome Comeback Award Recipient Announced

For Immediate Release – February 21, 2020 – (Vancouver, BC)

The Harry Jerome Comeback Award is presented to an individual who succeeded in their sport after suffering a significant and unique setback. The award was first presented at the Athlete of the Year Awards in 1968 to Olympic bronze medalist and world record holder, Harry Jerome. To name just a few, previous recipients include inspiring athletes Karen Magnussen, Wayne Goss, Silken Laumann, Emily Brydon, Tory Nyhaug and most recently Emily Overholt.

Sport BC is pleased to announce the recipient of the Harry Jerome Comeback Award for his accomplishments in 2019 is Simon Fraser University football player, Stephane Tanguay. Stephane will be presented the Harry Jerome Comeback Award at the 54th Annual Athlete of the Year Award on March 12, 2020 at the Vancouver Convention Centre East.

Simon Fraser University offensive lineman, Stephane Tanguay, is an inspiring figure for Simon Fraser University and beyond. For years Stephane battled with insomnia and depression. This started after he suffered a separated hip and a debilitating back injury causing him to miss the 2016-2017 season. During this time, he not only suffered physically, but mentally. His struggles continued and he had suicidal thoughts. Stephane suffered for a few years in this cycle and his self-worth plummeted. With the support of fiancé, Stephane had the courage to reach out for help and open up to his friends, family, and football community. This led to counselling and a return to the football field. Of his journey Stephane shares, “You realize that you are a lot stronger than you give yourself credit for. You focus on winning each day, and then you realize that there is very little you cannot overcome.”

“The Athlete of the Year Awards is a celebration of sport in our province and all of our finalists represent exceptional accomplishments in 2019. Our Harry Jerome Comeback Award recipient, Stephane Tanguay, is to be congratulated for his courage and strength through his journey in sport,” shares Sport BC’s President and CEO, Rob Newman. “We look forward to learning more about Stephane at the upcoming Athlete of the Year Awards and truly appreciate him sharing his important and inspiring story.”
